“Use of Aerial Photography and GIS in the Prehistoric Archaeology: Methods and Techniques

A state level workshop was organized on 05/04/22 by the department of Anthropology on “Use of Aerial Photography and GIS in the Prehistoric Archeology” . Resource persons were Dr. Pranab Jyoti Sarma of department of Geography and Dr. Smita Devi of Department of Anthropology of Gauhati University. Students of Anthropology of Raha College, Nagaon, Morigaon College, Dimoria College of Khetri, Pragjyotish College of Guwahati took part in the workshop. It was a hands on workshop. In the second half participants learned practically.

Prehistoric archaeology relies on advanced technologies to uncover and interpret ancient landscapes. Aerial photography and Geographic Information Systems (GIS) have emerged as invaluable tools, offering new dimensions to archaeological research. This seminar aims to explore the methods and techniques employed in combining aerial photography and GIS to enhance our understanding of prehistoric cultures and landscapes.
