Topic: Oral Traditions and History: Negotiating the Past

Number of Participants: 70

Objectives:

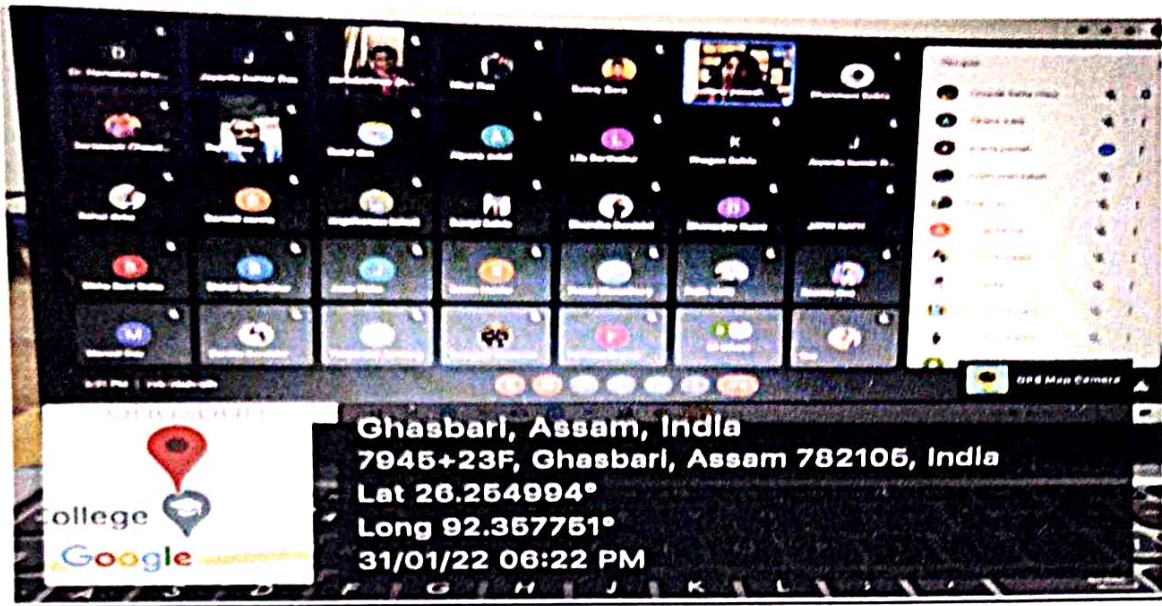

- To make the students aware about the various Oral traditions that are in existence and their potentialities in reconstructing the history
- To also bring them closer to their respective roots and traditional heritages in order to help them realise the potentials to write history around their surroundings.

Report: Professor AmenaPassah is a noted historian in the North-Eastern region. The session began with Principal and Patron of the HSMLS delivering an introductory note. Like all previous lectures, there was a session of "Responses from the family" which was delivered by Dr.SaradashreeChowdhury, Assistant Professor of the Department of English, Morigaon College and wife of Dr.HimangsuSarmah. The speaker began the technical session by discussing about the Oral traditions and its relevance in the Khasi Community of Meghalaya.
