Topic: Village Livelihood in the Context of Morigaon District (ENT)

Resource person: Sahidul Islam

Date: 24/07/22

The workshop on "Village Livelihood in the Context of Morigaon District" offered an insightful exploration into the socio-economic landscape of the region, catering to both graduation and master's students. Held on 24/07/22 in Department of Zoology, the seminar focused on understanding the dynamics of village livelihood within the specific context of Morigaon District. Expert speakers presented comprehensive analyses of the prevailing economic activities, cultural practices, and challenges faced by local communities. Attendees, comprising students from undergraduate and postgraduate programs, actively participated in discussions that delved into sustainable development strategies, community empowerment, and the role of government interventions. The seminar not only provided valuable academic perspectives but also fostered a deeper connection between theoretical knowledge and real-world scenarios. This event served as a platform for students to grasp the nuances of rural livelihoods, inspiring them to consider innovative solutions and community-centric approaches in their future academic and professional endeavors.
